BUSINESS MEN'S PICNIC ATTRACTS MANY TO PARK

Outing Proves One of the Most Successful in Years

CANDIDATES PLENTIFUL

One to Three Men for Every Office—Ox Roast is a Big Feature

A more congenial gathering than that at Eldora Park Wednessday would have been hard to find. The occasion was that of the Charleroi Business Men's picnic and one of the largest crowds was on the grounds that has attended any picnic of the business men of the "Magic City" for years. People were there with good reason too, for they had the time of their lives. More elaborate preparations to get the affair in order and a more systematic method of carrying out the arrangements tended to make the affair better than in many previous years. Entertainment especially provided for the occasion was enjoyed with an ardor which only a crowd of merry picnicers seem to possess.

Candidates were there from every nook and crevice in Washington county. There was any place from one to three men for every known office in attendance and such a time of hand-shaking and joy-making among the hopefuls was never before seen at Eldora. The candidates, jovial fellows that they were, mingled freely with the Charleroi party and made friends by the wholesale.

The ox roast might well be called a feature. Tom Mitchell, of Washington, who is a candidate himself for county commissioner had charge of the roasting process and fulfilled his duty to the queen's taste. The roasting was started at about 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening and at 6:30 o'clock the following morning sandwiches were ready to be served. Mitchell was the most popular man in the park. There were 135 large loaves of bread used and that wasn't nearly enough to satisfy the demand. The ox had disappeared by a little after 2 o'clock.

Baskets containing picnic dainties were called into use at noon, then afternoon events were started. A number were unable to get away from their business cares in the morning and went to the park in the afternoon. A trapeze performance was given by Eno McSeaton. He went through all the evolutions known to the trapeze performer's fraternitty and that with his trapeze hung 20 feet in mid air he gave performances both afternoon and evening.

The roller coaster, and merry-go-round proved popular places of amusement and not only the children but their elders found pleasure to be had at these diversions. Quoit pitching proved an interesting feature. A program of sports was decided.

Committees of business men, looked after the welfare of visitors. Not only Charleroi people but people from both up and down river were in the gathering. Dancing attracted the young folks both afternoon and evening. The main crowd of business men and their friends came home before eight o'clock but many lingered until a later hour.

Miss Susan Beigel of East End, Pittsburg is a guest of friends.

NEW ASPIRANT PUTS MATTERS IN MIXUP

T. J. Underwood of California Causes Somewhat of a Sensation by Announcing as Candidate for Sheriff

NEITHER HOTT NOR FRYE HAVE MADE UP THEIR MINDS

A sensation was occasioned in political circles this morning when T. J. Underwood, a well known business man of California made his formal announcement as a candidate for sheriff on the Republican ticket. Mr. Underwood's presence on the Republican ticket will tend to somewhat complicate matters. Although Underwood's name has been mentioned frequently as a possible candidate he never gave any intimation until this morning as to whether or not he would enter the race, when, listening to the requests of his friends, he made his announcement. Mr. Underwood is a well known Republican of the river district. He has never held a county office. He will be California's candidate and the normal town will no doubt give him a hearty support.

This announcement may throw county seat politicians of their calculations to some extent. They had hardly considered him as a possible candidate, although admitting his strength. Meanwhile they had been keeping a close eye on J. J. Hott, of Charleroi, who was mentioned as a sheriff posibility, and also on Charles O. Frye who is being seriously considered as a possible candidate for clerk of courts.

Neither Hott nor Frye have signified their intentions of entering the race yet. Candidates do not seem to be so plentiful for the office of clerk of courts, and practically the only one with much strength is Lockhart of Washington. Mr. Frye, it is admitted, would make Lockhart "go some" to pull away the nomination should he determine to enter the race.

POWER OF STATE IS BEHIND HIM

Governor Tener Summons Prosecutor in Coatesville Lynching Case

Governor John K. Tener has cancelled his [illegible] return to Massachusetts for his vacation in order to be at hand in Harrisburg to meet whatever situation may arise out of the Coatesville lynching of last Sunday night. The Governor has summoned District Attorney Robert S. Gawthrop of Chester county to the State Capitol today to discuss the situation with him and will offer to place the entire power of the State government behind him in his efforts to bring the leaders of the mob to justice.

The Governor's investigation to the conditions at Coatesville were completed Wednesday by Major John C. Groome, superintendent of the State police and after receiving his report on the situation the Governor had a consultation with Deputy Attorney General J. E. B.Cunningham at which the powers of the Governor and the Attorney General were outlined.

ARMY OFFICER TO TEST GUN OF GREENSBURG MAN

A new magazine rifle, capable of discharging 100 shots in less than two minutes, is the invention of a Greensburg resident, Ludivisco Cudia, who is in Washington to obtain a patent on his invention and have the new gun tested by the War Department. Congressman Gregg has interested himself in his constituent who was formerly employed by the Kelly & Jones company at Greensburg. Cudia, although only 30 years old, is an experienced draftsman and has described his invention in plain terms. He is of Italian parents and his father was a gunsmith who studied out similar problems. His invention is regarded as his lifework, which he desires to make serviceable to the American Government. Congressman Gregg commenting on Cudia's work said:

"Intensity of action is the principle on which Cudia has been working out his idea of a new magazine rifle. He claims to have solved all the mechanical difficulties of rapid fire rifles in making one which may be readily dismounted and reconstruction and the use of single projectiles or grapeshot without heating the barrel have presented features of interest to experts and Cudia hopes to have a model authorized to be constructed in Government arsenal."

New Floor Laid.

A new floor has been laid at the Charleroi postoffice. The work was done Wednesday.

CAR LEAPS FROM TRACK

Half Dozen People Injured in Trolley Accident

LOCAL PEOPLE IN WRECK

A number of persons were injured last evening when car No. 3606 of the Charleroi and Pittsburg division of the Pittsburg Railways company line left the track just above the Ivil coal tipple, between Monongahela and Black Diamond. The injured:

John Kraus, conductor, left arm badly injured and body bruised.

John Phillips, motorman bruised and injured about the body.

F. Robinditv of Pittsburg, bruised about the body and suffering from shock. Taken to the Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Leona Dessemarti, of Gallatin, right hip dislocated. Taken to home of relatives in Tenth street.

Frank Forilla, of Lock No. 4, knee injured.

JamesKearnes of Charleroi, had thumb of right hand badly mangled.

The car was due at the Catsburg switch at 6.50 but left there a little behind time and was speeding on a straight track. At a point just above the Ivil coal tipple, the front truck of the car left the track and the car skidded for 75 feet and jammed into a feed line pole. The front of the car was demolished.

The mortorman stuck to his post and the car was crowded. When the car jumped the track and began to bump along the tracks women and children on the car became greatly frightened, and some tried to jump from the car. The conductor, John Kraus was in the middle of the car and was thrown against a seat.

Dr. G. K. Hayes was at the scene of the accident soon after it happened and within 15 minutes more physicians arrived.

No cause has been assigned for the accident. A number of Charleroi people were on the car, but Kearns apparently was the only one of them hurt.

Imperial Bottle Plant Will Run Hereafter During August

AGREEMENTS REACHED

Bottle Workers and Manufacturers Committee Meet at Atlantic City

Next year there will be only one month's cessation of work at the Imperial Bottle factory and other bottle factories over the country employing union labor, instead of two months. This agreement was made at the recent convention of the bottle workers at Atlantic City, at which a committee from the manufacturers was present.

It has been the custom in past years to close down the bottle plants employing union workmen for two months, July and August. This year this rule was followed although there was some objection, and it is said a number of the men themselves would rather have worked a month longer. By the new plan the close down will be for August only, so that there will not only be an increase in capacity of the various plants affected but it will also provide the workmen themselves with another month's wages.

During the summer the Imperial Bottle factory has been making some ware by the use of "Johnny Bull" bottle blowing machines. These machines can be used on the rougher class of ware and serve to keep the orders from piling up too rapidly.

There will be no change in wage scale this year, the outcome of the bottle workers convention at Atlantic City being that the same scale as last year was agreed upon. Amicable settlement was not reached without come contention, however, which finally resulted in the manufacturers giving ground. Through a committee headed by George W. Yost the manufacturers accociation asked for a graduated revision downward of wages ranging from 15 to 25 per cent and a more liberal allowance for apprentices. This demand was finally abandoned and agreements reached.

MONONGAHELA YOUNG WOMAN'S AUTOMOBILE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Miss Agnes Black of Monongahela while riding in her Chalmers touring car Wednesday night with Albert G. Bates was forced to leave her machine when it caught fire on the West Newton road, 12 miles from Monongahela and burned to the ground. It is not known how the fire started but it is believed that it had its origin from backfire. The machine was completely destroyed. The car was insured for $1,200.

MEETS WITH FAVOR.

The proposition of the Mail, which is also favored by other newspapers of the county, that the county treasurer advertise for bids and award the deposit of all public money to the bank or depository that will pay the highest rate of interest, has excited much favorable comment, and is meeting with favor on every side by the public. It is a business proposition pure and simple, and there is no reason why the taxpayers of the county should not benefit by the same economic methods employed by individuals and corporations in the careful conduct of business.

While not altogether in the line of direct graft, the juggling and misuse of public funds has long constituted one of the gravest abuses in the public service. As generally interpreted all the law requires of the custodians of public money is to give ample security for its safe keeping, receive it, pay it out on proper vouchers, and turn the balance over when required. In private business, however, any idle surplus is carefully invested where it will bring the most returns, but in public affairs it has been the rule to hold surplus money inactive as long as possible in order that private interests might profit by the use of it. More frequently than otherwise there is collusion either direct or indirect on the part of officials, and this constitutes a species of graft which has grown everywhere to gigantic proportions.

As now constituted the duties of the county treasurer could be conducted by any of the banks which would no doubt be glad to perform the duties free of all commissions for the privilege of handling the deposits. The addition of a fifty dollar a month clerk would be practically all the outlay necessary for any of the banks to make over the custody of the county funds, and with $700,000 idle money to invest for private profit for several months of the year the bank handling the county funds would be a winner and the county would save the treasurer's commissions besides. The people should demand that the treasurer be required to secure returns on surplus funds to the best possible advantage to the county.

AN EXAMPLE NECESSARY.

It is a matter of gratification to the people of this community as well as of the whole State generally to know that Governor John K. Tener has cut short his vacation in order to assist in every way in bringing the offenders against law and order in the lynching affair at Coatesville to justice. There is every reason to believe that a swift and sure judgment will follow this awful deed, which will make lawless elements chary about resorting to lynch law in Pennsylvania in the future.

It may be impossible to prevent these ocurrences at all times in all parts of the State, but precaution can be taken so that those who once participate in them will never get the opportunity to offend a second time. Let justice follow the action of the mob swiftly and surely and the latter element will lose sight of the excuse that the law is lax in this respect.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

At the Charleroi Business Men's picnic at Eldora Park Wednesday, the people were given a chance to observe the amenities of American politics. Invitations had been extended to the various candidates seeking office, and 22 responded—at least that was the count, according to those who kept the cards that were tendered them. In the bunch there were as a matter of course several competing for the nomination for the same office, and there was a lot of good natured raillery as to the chances of each by the crowd present. As it is votes that count now in the nomination, there is scarcely a public assembly of any kind in the county but what the Scriptural injunction, "There am I present also," may me applied to candidates for office. Among those who got a lot of fun out of the situation was John D. Berryman of the department store of J. W. Berryman & Son.

"This is the opportunity for us Democrats," said Mr. Berryman to a group of candidates, the most of whom were Republican aspirants. "Here's where we get our inning. Had I known there would be such a scramble for the nominations for office among you Republicans I'd have been a candidate myself. After the primary you who will be defeated will be sore—you can't all get one office—and then you and your friends will whirl in and elect our candidates at the general election. I see where I missed it. Just my luck."

"Did you ever try a penny social for church work?" asked a woman who is a visitor in town from a distance. "We hold them regularly, and they are really more popular than the dime socials. The idea is to charge a penny admission to the church parlors, where the social is held, and then have somethhing to sell for one or two pennies. At first we tried selling small articles for one or two pennies, but we found that something to aet wasmore popular, particularly with the men. So we sell cookies—good home made ones—for a penny apiece, tea in small dainty cups for a penny a cup and vary this at each social. Sometimes we sell home made ginger bread for a penny a slice, and sometimes doughnuts or slices of pound cake, and sometimes buttered tea biscuits. Frequently if the article is extra good we charge two pennies, and oft times we sell home made candies on the same basis. It is a most popular way to raise a small sum regularly without much outlay, and it invariably brings the men out to the socials."

DIDN'T SEEM TO WORK OUT

Dog Owner's Idea Bright Enough, but Somehow Her Memory Got Twisted.

To Miss Bounce, who knows nothing whatever about dogs and can scarcely tell a greyhound from a St. Bernard, Mr. Kennell presented a fine young Airdale terrier. He was extremely wide awake and active, even for a pup, and the young lady was kept constantly on the alert to prevent his getting into mischief or running into danger. Casting about in her mind for a suitable name for this restless animal Miss Bounce remembered that in her school days she had learned in her philosophy that "wind is air in motion." What more appropriate name, then, for the young Airdale than Wind. So Wind he was called. His name, thought Miss Bounce, also will aid me memonically to remember the name of the species to which he belongs.

"What kind of a dog is that pup of yours?" asked some one a few weeks after the christening.

Miss Bounce's eyes roved anxiously for an instant, but steadied themselves directly as she replied with serene confidence, "He is a Wind Hound."

CASTING ASIDE A FORTUNE

Declined to Swap an Old Vest for a Worn-Out Farm Full of Diamonds.

In this day of great fortunes it is not unusual to read in the daily news columns of great fortunes being lost and won in a day, and the following anecdote is quoted to illustrate how one man cast aside an opportunity to become many times a millionaire.

Years ago a man named Saltzmann owned an estate in Griqualand, and adjoining his property was an old worn down farm that had not been worked on account of its poor soil and the lack of necessary water. The owner of this farm met Herr Saltzmann one day and offered to trade the farm for an old waistcoat he had seen him wearing

As Saltzmann did not wish to burden himself with a piece of worthless land he kindly refused the offer A few years later big clear diamonds were found on this waste stretch, and now millions of dollars could not purchase it.

Hungry Boy.

Mercy on us, hungry boy, what a blessing you enjoy with your sturdy little tum always eager for a crumb. What a privilege is yours, taking care of apple cores, carbohydrates starches, pie, anything a fire can fry, any proteid at all, so they make it in a ball, in a dumpling or a cake such as mother used to make. May your stomach give you joy! I was once a hungry boy.

Consequently, little man, do your feeding while you can. Eat your fill and sleep your sleep while your apparatus keeps smooth and working and your dreams, continues the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, are not frazzled at the seams. Not for long is that great joy, so go to it, hungry boy.

Prince's "Pull" Abolished.

According to custom in China the members of the imperial family are above the law. Prince Can-Chi has been doing just as he likes recently, fortified with this immunity. There is not a hygienic law that this interesting person has not broken, and his great recreation seems to have been to defy the police. At length to the endurance of the police there came a limit, and the matter was brought under the notice of the regent, who has not only abolished the "convention," but the prince's recreations also, and given instructions that in future he must act as an ordinary citizen, or stand the consequences.

Bismarck and Coffee.

Among the coffee drinkers a high place must be given to Bismarck, says the London Chronicle. He liked coffee unadulterated. While with the Prussian army in France he one day entered a country inn and asked the host if he had any chiccory in the house. He had, Bismarck said. "Well, bring it to me, all you have." The man obeyed and handed Bismarck a canister full of chiccory "Are you sure this is all you have demanded the chancellor, "Yes, my lord, every grain." "Then," said Bismarck, keeping the canister by him, "go now and make me a pot of coffee."

No Place for Economy.

Don't economize in love. It's the one treasure that grows bigger the more you take from it, the one valuable thing in which it pays to be a spendthrift. Give it away, throw it away, splash it over, empty your pockets, and tomorrow you'll have more than ever.

Savages Use Finger Bowl.

A student of manners and customs informs us that the finger bowl is not an invention of civilized peoples. On the contrary, the finger bowl is indigenous to the South Sea islands, though it does not follow that the western world has copied the east in this respect. The bowl which is passed after a meal in the house on a South Sea island is the half of a cocoanut shell, which is thrown away after being once used.

Blames the Romans.

A sartorial authority says that the custom of dressing for dinner began with the Romans. It was needless to say, a simpler procedure than at present. A loose robe of a fine material was donned for the evening meal, preferably at home, but in cases where guests came from a distance, at the home of the host, he kept a supply of dinner clothes on hand for the use of his guests who came unprovided.

Chooses Queer Quarters.

Queer quarters are those chosen by a thrush in Lincolnshire It has built its nest over the axle and behind the grease-box of a railway wagon at Market Rasen. The bird is sitting on four eggs, and seems to be not at all disturbed when the wagon is shunted.

The Royal Oak.

The actual tree into which Charles vanished was hacked to pieces within a few years by relic hunters, and the present royal oak at Boscobe is merely a descendant. A salver made from the original royal oak is still possessed by Oxford university, and countless chairs, tables, altars, picture frames and snuff boxes claim to be made out of the same sacred material. Charles II. intended to commemorate his escape at Boscobel by establishing a new order of "Knights of the Royal Oak," but thought best "not to keep awake animosities." The name of the "Royal Oak" has been preserved in the navy since 1664. The first ship to bear this historic name met with an ignominious fate, being burned by the Dutch when they came up the Medway in 1667. Oak Apple day, now little observed except by school boys, was formerly a great anniversary and for long after the Restoration a Royal Oak invariably figured in all civic pageants.—Westminster Gazette.

SAVED DAUGHTERS LIFE

This Father Refused to Let His Daughter Die.

Here is a story with amoral that many parents might take to heart:

"My daughter was very pale, nervous, thin and suffered with severe pain in her back, so that we took her out of school. Her flesh became blue and she could not retain her urine. I spent over $100 for medicines but she grew worse. Finally I bought a bottle of Thompson's Barosma and she began to grow better right away. Five bottles of Thompson's Barosma made a complete cure and today she is a perfectly healthy girl. Thompson's Barosma saved her life, for she was failing so fast that death was not far off."—Frank D. Meeder, Pleasantville Pa.

If you are troubled with backache, sideache, weakness with backache, or any liver or kidney trouble, then it's time for Thompson's Barosma.

W. F. Henning's sells Thompson's Barosma in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00, and he guarantees it to cure Bright's disease, high colored urine, bed-wetting and all other kidney and liver diseases. It will make anyone vigorous in a few weeks, because it is a great tonic and maker of rich red blood. All druggists.

To Live 140 Years.

The natural term of man's life, arguing from the logic and evidence of comparative zoology, is 140 years—and even this is not the limit.

Life is a promissory note due one day after date, payable on demand, but by right living we can defer payment almost indefinitely.

Eminent scientists tell us that—

The life of the bones is 5,000 years.
The life of the lungs is 1,500 years.
The life of the skin is 900 years.
The life of the liver is 400 years.
The life of the kidneys is 300 years.
The life of the heart is 300 years.

If 300 years is the life of the heart, then one could not have the heart to live after that.

The Hindus, in the development of the physical man, claim for him not only longevity, but immunity from disease. They say to him: "He is determined not to fall sick, and he never does. He lives long, a hundred years is nothing to him; he is quite young and fresh when he is 150."

A Polite Acknowledgment.

After a "command" performance in Queen Victoria's time it was the custom for her majesty's secretary to send a letter of thanks to the responsible manager. Sir Henry Ponsonby, upon whom this duty devolved, was the soul of politeness and, not wishing to make any invidious distinction, drew up one form of letter. On the whole this plan worked well, but on one occasion the proprietor of a troupe of performing geese, which had entertained the royal children at a Windsor garden party, received the following communication from Sir Henry: "Sir—I am instructed by the queen to thank you for your visit of yesterday, and to express the hope that the ladies and gentlemen of your company arrived safely in London and in good health!"

Relics of Past Ages.

An interesting discovery was made recently at Spittal (Eng.) by a number of workmen. While digging operations were being carried on, a quantity of human bones were turned up. This was followed by the unearthing of a number of stone coffins, each containing human remains. The coffins bore no resemblance to the massive sarcophagus recently disinterred at Berwick, but consisted simply of rough stone slabs.

To Clean Furniture.

To take marks off varnished furniture wet a sponge in common spirits of camphor, and apply it freely. It has nearly, if not quite, the same effect as varnish, and much cheaper.

This bit of humor and pathos is from the Hawaiian Star: "An amusing incident is related of a young service matron who had relinquished her husband for two years and who, having before his departure insisted on a good photograph, applied herself assiduously to the upbringing of her two-year-old baby with a view to the child's familiarity with her distant father. Each day she would call the baby girl to her and, kneeling beside her, would hold up the photograph, pointing out each feature to the child.

"One day the officer came home, and the baby girl, then four years old, was summoned. 'Come dear,' said her mother in glee, 'papa has come home at last!' The child surveyed the officer in perplexity and finally shook her head.

"'What is the matter, dear?' asked her mother. 'Well,' replied the child, 'he looks something like my papa, but my papa hasn't any legs!'"

Humor of the Barometer.

It was a beautiful barometer. It glistened from its splendid wooden case with a spick and spanness that boasted of its newness. Its rich framework clearly advertised the large price that had been paid for it. Its owner was justly proud. But it possessed one drawback—it wouldn't work. Ever since it had been purchased it had remained at "set fair" whatever the weather had happened to be. And the weather had happened to be particularly wet. At last its owner grew weary of its external beauty and exasperated over its internal stupidity. One day when the rain was pouring extra hard he tore the weather indicator from the wall and took it out into the road.

For a moment the needle hesitated. Then as the raindrops began to dim the glass it made up its mind and moved slowly round to "very dry."—London Answers.

An Innocent Victim.

General F. D. Grant, at a dinner at West Point, once analyzed the military genius of Washington.

"Washington," he said, "gave us our independence by campaigning faultlessly. He never made mistakes. There have been more brilliant soldiers than Washington, but there has never been so sure a one. In warfare, you must know, the smallest mistake may lose a whole battle, a whole campaign, a whole cause. And that reminds me of poor Tom White.

"Tom White failed in business owing to the mistake of one single letter made by his stenographer. Tom's patron in business was a deaf millionaire who was very touchy about his deafness. This millionaire turned from a good friend to a bitter enemy—he foreclosed on Tom—because the unhappy fellow's stenographer accidentally began a letter to him 'Deaf Sir.'"

A Gilded Gown.

During the reign of King George I. Lord Hervey, a cultured man, gave this description of the fine dress of a distinguished woman:

"The Duchess of Queensberry's clothes pleased me most. They were white satin embroidered, the bottom of the petticoat brown hills, covered with all sorts of weeds, and every breadth had an old stump of a tree than ran up almost to the top of the petticoat, broken and ragged and worked with brown chenille, round which twined nasturtiums, ivy, honeysuckles, periwinkles, convolyuluses and all sorts of twining vines, which spread and covered the petticoat. Many of the leaves were finished in gold, and part of the stumps of the trees looked like the gilding of the sun."

Grown Cautious.

Chatty Lodger (to landlord) — You seem to have seen a good deal. What are you? Landlord—Well, sir, I were a lion tamer, and I'd be there now if I 'adn't a-married; but, you see, my wife were a knife thrower in the same show, and she got to practicing her turn on me. Well, thinks I, life ain't too long to run no risks, so I took on a safe job and become a steeplejack.—London Punch.

A Word to Be Avoided.

Wife—Well, did you find out what it was I said that offended Mrs. Youngbride? Hub—Yes, her husband told me. It seems that you remarked, "I see you're installed in your new home," and as they've furnished on the installment plan she thought you were trying to be funny at their expense.—Boston Transcript.

Quite a Help.

"Is your boy Josh much of a help to you?"

"Yes," replied Farmer Corntossel. "He is making a collection of insects. Of course he don't catch as many as he could if he wouldn't stop to label 'em, but, then, you know, every little helps."—Washington Star.

Anecdotes.

"What is an anecdote, pa?"

"An anecdote, my son, is a short and funny tale which at once reminds the other fellow of a tale which is neither short nor funny."—Puck.

A Choice of Words.

"You sold me that horse as free from faults. Why, it's blind."

"Blind? Well, that's not a fault; that's a cruel misfortune."

He Heard Her.

"My daughter's piano lessons have been a great expense to me."

"That so? Did some neighbor sue you?"

If you live by nature you will never be poor; if by opinion, never rich.—Epicurus.

Actor's Proper Place.

Mahlon Ivans, Jr., of Merchantville has a reputation as an actor and takes part in nearly all of the local shows. In the last show that was given, Shorty had one of the leading parts. After the show, while he was taking off his makeup, an elderly man made his appearance in the doorway. "Are you Mr. Ivins?" inquired the old man. "Yes," replied Shorty, as he motioned him to be seated. "Well," the old man continued, "I just want to tell you something. I've been watching your acting tonight. You should not be playing in this town; you should be with Mansfield, Booth or Irving, or Joe Jefferson." "Why-w-why," said Shorty, "those actors are dead." "I know it," said the old man, as he turned on his heel and left.—Philadelphia Times.

A Wide-Awake Constable.

"Ye say ye ain't been speedin', eh?" said Silas as he stopped the car.

"Nary a speed," said the chauffeur, trying to be amiable.

"When did ye leave Quinceville?" demanded Silas, suspiciously.

"Five o'clock this morning," said the chauffeur, with a wink at his companion.

"Five this mornin', eh?" said the constable, catching the wink. "Taken ye six hours to come four miles. Wa-al, I guess I'll run ye in, anyhow, only I'll change the complaint from overspeedin' to obstructin' the highway."—Harper's Weekly.

A Musical Prodigy.

In 1841 arrived in London a Russian boy, called Antoine Rubinstein, not twelve years old, whose performances on the piano had excited wonder and delight among the musical amateurs. He was equally skilled in the ancient as well as modern style of playing and gave with wonderful effect the most difficult passages of Bach or Thalburg. All this, too, was done with the utmost apparent ease, and in the most difficult passages he frequently indulged himself in grotesque imitations of the peculiar trickeries of the composer upon whose music he was engaged.—The Russian Boy.

It Wasn't a Plot.

"What do you think of the plot?" asked the theater manager. "That isn't a plot," replied the man who had paid two dollars to see the show. "That's a conspiracy."—Washington Star.

Desire and Endeavor.

What does the hungry man want? Money? Not at all. Fame? No. Good clothes? Not a bit. He wants food. What does the thirsty man want? Reputation? Bonds and stocks? No! He wants water. When we are dead in earnest and want the bread of heaven and water of life, we shall not stop till we get them.—Ram's Horn

Stung.

Signor Grasso, the Sicilian actor, was so carried away by the enthusiastic reception given to the performance of the third act of "Malia" at the London Hippodrome, that he caught the actor who had played the part of his sturdy rival in that tragic episode round the neck with his left arm, grabbed his hair with his right hand, and kissed him.—London Daily Mail.

Wanted to Be Exact.

"Say, Lem, said a long haired farmer looking into the door of the barber shop, "how soon kin yer cut my hair?" "In about half an hour, replied the barber 'All right,' he said and departed. In a few minutes the door opened again "Say, Lem,' asked the farmer, "sun time er standert?"—Success.

Worth Remembering.

"Remember, brethren," said the good man, as he closed the Bible and gently shook a forensic finger at his hearers, "there are no steam whistles in heaven, and no angel is going to get into trouble for twanging a harp overtime."

Nothing to Quarrel About.

There are a few men who are foolish enough to quarrel about where they would go to, if they only had enough money to go some.

HE WROTE THE GREAT PLAY

Friends Praised It, Famous Manager Took it to Read—and Then He Woke Up.

"My friends had always insisted that I could write a great play," said Jordan, "if I would only set my hand to the task. Well, to be frank, I had long cherished the idea myself that I possessed the ability to do something worth while in the way of providing material for the stage. Like so many of my fellow laborers in the journalistic field, however, I found it exceedingly difficult to secure the time which was necessary for the production of a drama. The best I could do was to steal an hour now and then to devote to the great work. This I did faithfully and zealously, and, after two years of study and earnest endeavor my play began to near completion.

"My friends were enthusiastic. I had been fortunate enough to hit upon an entirely new plot, and, if I may say so, I had handled it admirably. Each of the four acts was filled with thrilling situations; the comedy was subtle and insinuating; the pathos was genuine and the interest was splendidly sustained. Having administered the finishing touches, I took my play to a great producing manager He had an office in a large building on Broadway.

"With my play done up in a neat package I entered the anteroom, where a young man greeted me respectfully and admitted that the great manager was not out of the city In fact, the young man consented to take my card into his employer. I had waited only a minute or two when the young man returned and graciously conducted me to the manager, who cordially shook hands with me and said that he would be glad to personally read my play and consider it strictly on its merits."

"Yes. What then?"

"Well, just at that moment something fell somewhere, making a loud, clattering noise, so I crawled out of bed and put on my clothes."—Chicago Record-Herald

STEEL SPECKS IN THE FLOUR

Man of Science Announces Gravely That This Is One of the Causes of Appendicitis.

Dr. Edred M. Conner of London, alleges that appendicitis is due to white flour. Steel from the mill rollers gets into the flour. We eat this minute steel and as it goes round the bend it shunts off on the blind siding. In time it stacks up like a culm heap and irritation ensues.

A good part of the steel is absorbed, to be sure. That explains why it is not found in any of the cases operated on But the point is, no doubt, that more than the 10-penny nail of iron allowed to each mortal is taken in and the body's magnetic equilibrium is thereby upset. The man who invented graham bread died of indigestion, but if he had drawn a magnet through it before baking he would have removed the steel particles and might have lived forever.

The wise cook today will buy a small magnet and thoroughly stir her flour with it before putting in the water and yeast. Let her wipe off the magnet every little while. The black specks that adhere are tiny bits of steel. Bread made in this way may be eaten without fear of appendicitis.

Surely Queen of All Hens.

A certain industrious hen, interested in the welfare of Petaluma, Cal., has gone so far in her efforts to spread the renown of the city of eggs and broilers that she recently placed four yolks in one shell. Her zealousness was discovered by a firm of egg merchants, Whitcomb & Baker. The egg was slightly larger than normal. It looked like a regular egg until a candle gave an X-ray view of four small yolks. A hunt is still being made to locate the hen. In the same shipment were a number of other eggs containing two yolks, but the egg with the four yolks is said to break all records.

Fond Hearts Finally United.

After waiting 30 years for her to become a widow, George Sleegarm of Wilkesbarre, Pa., has married Mrs. Marietta Tehern of Hazelton. When they were young in Germany they fell in love, and would have married had it not been for the opposition of their parents. They tried to elope, but were discovered and caught before it was possible for them to wed. Sleegarm, despondent and angry, emigrated, and his sweetheart, who was married a year after he left, followed a few years later with her husband, who died a short time ago. Sleegarm lately discovered that his old sweetheart lived in Hazleton. The old courtship was begun again and culminated in their wedding the other day.

Sure to Be a Success.

"I expect to make a fortune out of an invention that I have just completed."

"What is it?"

"A piano that can be folded up and used as a card table. It will be a great thing for flats."

How We Live.

The only right is that which allows man's individuality to expand, and the only wrong is that which contracts it—we live in the measure that we voice ourselves, and we but linger when self-expression atrophies and dies.

GOOD TIME IN RACES

Many Attracted to Belle Vernon by Fast Going There

TODAY'S CARD GOOD ONE

Many Charleroi people attended the opening races at Belle Vernon Wednesday, which were marred by two accidents, one of the drivers, W. P. Merrell of Altoona, receiving a severe laceration of the scalp. Both accidents occurred in the final heat of the second race. Violet, driven by J. T. Shank of Dunolo, Pa., and Charmward, driven by Merrell, collided at the last quarter and Violet was thown. Shank, her driver was thrown over her head. He was not injured seriously, and finished, although his horse did not get a place. Charmward, the other horse in the colision, also continued but a short distance away a wheel of the sulky came off and Merrell was thrown. Akeman was approaching, and before its driver could turn, the axle of the sulky struck Merrell on the head, severly injuring him. He was attended by a physician.

NEW ASPIRANT PUTS MATTERS IN MIXUP

T. J. Underwood of California Causes Somewhat of a Sensation by Announcing as Candidate for Sheriff

NEITHER HOTT NOR FRYE HAVE MADE UP THEIR MINDS

A sensation was occasioned in political circles this morning when T. J. Underwood, a well known business man of California made his formal announcement as a candidate for sheriff on the Republican ticket. Mr. Underwood's presence on the Republican ticket will tend to somewhat complicate matters. Although Underwood's name has been mentioned frequently as a possible candidate he never gave any inumation until this morning as to whether or not he would enter the race, when, listening to the requests of his friends, he made his announcement. Mr. Underwood is a well known Republican of the river district. He has never held a county office. He will be California's candidate and the normal town will no doubt give him a hearty support

This announcement may throw county seat politicians of their calculations to some extent They had hardly considered him as a possible candidate, although admitting his strength. Meanwhile they had been keeping a close eye on J. J. Hott. of Charleroi, who was mentioned as a sheriff posibility, and also on Charles O Frye who is being seriously considered as a possible candidate for clerk of courts.

Neither Hott nor Frye have signified their intentions of entering the race yet. Candidates do not seem to be so plentiful for the office of clerk of courts, and practically the only one with much strength is Lockhart of Washington. Mr Frye, it is admitted, would make Lockhart "go some" to pull away the nomination should he determine to enter the race.

POWER OF STATE IS BEHIND HIM

Governor Tener Summons Prosecutor in Coatesville Lynching Case

Governor John K. Tener has canceled his arrangements to return to Massachusetts for his vacation in order to be at hand in Harrisburg to meet whatever situation may arise out of the Coatesville lynching of last Sunday night. The Governor has summoned District Attorney Robert S. Gawthrop of Chester county to the State Capitol today to discuss the situation with him and will offer to place the entire power of the State government behind him in his efforts to bring the leaders of the mob to justice.

The Governor's investigation to the conditions at Coatesville were completed Wednesday by Major John C. Groome, superintendent of the State police and after receiving his report on the situation the Governor had a consultation with Deputy Attorney General J. E. B.Cunningham at which the powers of the Governor and the Attorney General were outlined.

ARMY OFFICER TO TEST GUN OF GREENSBURG MAN

A new magazine rifle, capable of discharging 100 shots in less than two minutes, is the invention of a Greensburg resident, Ludivisco Cudia, who is in Washington to obtain a patent on his invention and have the new gun tested by the War Department. Congressman Gregg has interested himself in his constituent who was formerly employed by the Kelly & Jones company at Greensburg. Cudia, although only 30 years old. is an experienced draftsman and has described his invention in plain terms. He is of Italian parents and his father was a gunsmith who studied out similar problems His invention is regarded as his lifework, which he desires to make serviceable to the American Government. Congressman Gregg commenting on Cudia's work said:

"Intensity of action is the principle on which Cudia has been working out his idea of a new magazine rifle He claims to have solved all the mechanical difficulties of rapid fire rifles in making one which may be readily dismounted and reconstruction and the use of single projectiles or grapeshot without heating the barrel have presented features of interest to experts and Cudia hopes to have a model authorized to be constructed in Government arsenal."

Imperial Bottle Plant Will Run Hereafter During August

AGREEMENTS REACHED

Bottle Workers and Manufacturers Committee Meet at Atlantic City

Next year there will be only one month's cessation of work at the Imperial Bottle factory and other bottle factories over the country employing union labor, instead of two months. This agreement was made at the recent convention of the bottle workers at Atlantic City, at which a committee from the manufacturers was present.

It has been the custom in past years to close down the bottle plants employing union workmen for two months, July and August. This year this rule was followed although there was some objection, and it is said a number of the men themselves would rather have worked a month longer By the new plan the close down will be for August only, so that there will not only be an increase in capacity of the various plants affected but it will also provide the workmen themselves with another month's wages.

During the summer the Imperial Bottle factory has been making some ware by the use of "Johnny Bull" bottle blowing machines. These machines can be used on the rougher class of ware and serve to keep the orders from piling up too rapidly.

There will be no change in wage scale this year, the outcome of the bottle workers convention at Atlantic City being that the same scale as last year was agreed upon Amicable settlement was not reached without come contention, however, which finally resulted in the manufacturers giving ground. Through a committee headed by George W. Yost the manufacturers accociation asked for a graduated revision downward of wages ranging from 15 to 25 per cent and a more liberal allowance for apprentices. This demand was finally abandoned and agreements reached.

Bates was forced to leave her machine when it caught fire on the West Newton road, 12 miles from Monongahela and burned to the ground. It is not known how the fire started but it is believed that it had its origin from backfire. The machine was completely destroyed. The car was insured for $1.200.

MEETS WITH FAVOR.

The proposition of the Mail, which is also favored by other newspapers of the county, that the county treasurer advertise for bids and award the deposit of all public money to the bank or depository that will pay the highest rate of interest, has excited much favorable comment, and is meeting with favor on every side by the public. It is a business proposition pure and simple, and there is no reason why the taxpayers of the county should not benefit by the same economic methods employed by individuals and corporations in the careful conduct of business.

While not altogether in the line of direct graft, the juggling and misuse of public funds has long constituted one of the gravest abuses in the public service. As generally interpreted all the law requires of the custodians of public money is to give ample security for its safe keeping, receive it, pay it out on proper vouchers, and turn the balance over when required. In private business, however, any idle surplus is carefully invested where it will bring the most returns, but in public affairs it has been the rule to hold surplus money inactive as long as possible in order that private interests might profit by the use of it. More frequently than otherwise there is collusion either direct or indirect on the part of officials, and this constitutes a species of graft which has grown everywhere to gigantic proportions.

As now constituted the duties of the county treasurer could be conducted by any of the banks which would no doubt be glad to perform the duties free of all commissions for the privilege of handling the deposits. The addition of a fifty dollar a month clerk would be practically all the outlay necessary for any of the banks to take over the custody of the county funds, and with $700,000 idle money to invest for private profit for several months of the year the bank handling the county funds would be a winner and the county would save the treasurer's commissions besides. The people should demand that the treasurer be required to secure returns on surplus funds to the best possible advantage to the county.

AN EXAMPLE NECESSARY.

It is a matter of gratification to the people of this community as well as of the whole State generally to know that Governor John K. Tener has cut short his vacation in order to assist in every way in bringing the offenders against law and order in the lynching affair at Coatesville to justice. There is every reason to believe that a swift and sure judgment will follow this awful deed, which will make lawless elements chary about resorting to lynch law in Pennsylvania in the future.

It may be impossible to prevent these ocurrences at all times in all parts of the State, but precaution can be taken so that those who once participate in them will never get the opportunity to offend a second time. Let justice follow the action of the mob swiftly and surely and the latter element will lose sight of the excuse that the law is lax in this respect.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

At the Charleroi Business Men's picnic at Eldora Park Wednesday, the people were given a chance to observe the amenities of American politics. Invitations had been extended to the various candidates seeking office, and 22 responded—at least that was the count, according to those who kept the cards that were tendered them. In the bunch there were as a matter of course several competing for the nomination for the same office, and there was a lot of good natured raillery as to the chances of each by the crowd present. As it is votes that count now in the nomination, there is scarcely a public assembly of any kind in the county but what the Scriptural injunction, "There am I present also," may me applied to candidates for office. Among those who got a lot of fun out of the situation was John D. Berryman of the department store of J. W. Berryman & Son.

"This is the opportunity for us Democrats," said Mr. Berryman to a group of candidates, the most of whom were Republican aspirants. "Here's where we get our inning. Had I known there would be such a scramble for the nominations for office among you Republicans I'd have been a candidate myself. After the primary you who will be defeated will be sore—you can't all get one office—and then you and your friends will whirl in and elect our candidates at the general election. I see where I missed it. Just my luck."

"Did you ever try a penny social for church work?" asked a woman who is a visitor in town from a distance. "We hold them regularly, and they are really more popular than the dime socials. The idea is to charge a penny admission to the church parlors, where the social is held, and then have something to sell for one or two pennies. At first we tried selling small articles for one or two pennies, but we found that something to aet wasmore popular, particularly with the men. So we sell cookies—good home made ones—for a penny apiece, tea in small dainty cups for a penny a cup and vary this at each social. Sometimes we sell home made ginger bread for a penny a slice, and sometimes doughnuts or slices of pound cake, and sometimes buttered tea biscuits. Frequently if the article is extra good we charge two pennies, and oft times we sell home made candies on the same basis. It is a most popular way to raise a small sum regularly without much outlay, and it invariably brings the men out to the socials."

DIDN'T SEEM TO WORK OUT

Dog Owner's Idea Bright Enough, but Somehow Her Memory Got Twisted.

To Miss Bounce, who knows nothing whatever about dogs and can scarcely tell a greyhound from a St. Bernard, Mr. Kennell presented a fine young Airdale terrier. He was extremely wide awake and active, even for a pup, and the young lady was kept constantly on the alert to prevent his getting into mischief or running into danger. Casting about in her mind for a suitable name for this restless animal Miss Bounce remembered that in her school days she had learned in her philosophy that "wind is air in motion." What more appropriate name, then, for the young Airdale than Wind. So Wind he was called. His name, thought Miss Bounce, also will aid me memonically to remember the name of the species to which he belongs.

"What kind of a dog is that pup of yours?" asked some one a few weeks after the christening.

Miss Bounce's eyes roved anxiously for an instant, but steadied themselves directly as she replied with serene confidence. "He is a Wind Hound."

CASTING ASIDE A FORTUNE

Declined to Swap an Old Vest for a Worn-Out Farm Full of Diamonds.

In this day of great fortunes it is not unusual to read in the daily news columns of great fortunes being lost and won in a day, and the following anecdote is quoted to illustrate how one man cast aside an opportunity to become many times a millionaire.

Years ago a man named Saltzmann owned an estate in Griqualand, and adjoining his property was an old worn down farm that had not been worked on account of its poor soil and the lack of necessary water. The owner of this farm met Herr Saltzmann one day and offered to trade the farm for an old waistcoat he had seen him wearing

As Saltzmann did not wish to burden himself with a piece of worthless land he kindly refused the offer. A few years later big clear diamonds were found on this waste stretch, and now millions of dollars could not purchase it.

Hungry Boy.

Mercy on us, hungry boy, what a blessing you enjoy with your sturdy little tum always eager for a crumb. What a privilege is yours, taking care of apple cores, carbohydrates starches, pie, anything a fire can fry, any proteid at all, so they make it in a ball, in a dumpling or a cake such as mother used to make. May your stomach give you joy! I was once a hungry boy.

Consequently, little man, do your feeding while you can. Eat your fill and sleep your sleep while your apparatus keeps smooth and working and your dreams, continues the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, are not frazzled at the seams. Not for long is that great joy, so go to it, hungry boy.

Prince's "Pull" Abolished.

According to custom in China the members of the imperial family are above the law. Prince Can-Chi has been doing just as he likes recently, fortified with this immunity. There is not a hygienic law that this interesting person has not broken, and his great recreation seems to have been to defy the police. At length to the endurance of the police there came a limit, and the matter was brought under the notice of the regent, who has not only abolished the "convention," but the prince's recreations also, and given instructions that in future he must act as an ordinary citizen, or stand the consequences.

Bismarck and Coffee.

Among the coffee drinkers a high place must be given to Bismarck, says the London Chronicle. He liked coffee unadulterated. While with the Prussian army in France he one day entered a country inn and asked the host if he had any chiccory in the house. He had, Bismarck said. "Well, bring it to me, all you have." The man obeyed and handed Bismarck a canister full of chiccory. "Are you sure this is all you have demanded the chancellor, "Yes, my lord, every grain." "Then," said Bismarck, keeping the canister by him, "go now and make me a pot of coffee."

No Place for Economy.

Don't economize in love. It's the one treasure that grows bigger the more you take from it, the one valuable thing in which it pays to be a spendthrift. Give it away, throw it away, splash it over, empty your pockets, and tomorrow you'll have more than ever.

Savages Use Finger Bowl.

A student of manners and customs informs us that the finger bowl is not an invention of civilized peoples. On the contrary, the finger bowl is indigenous to the South Sea islands, though it does not follow that the western world has coaled the east in this respect. The bowl which is passed after a meal in the house on a South Sea island is the half of a cocoanut shell, which is thrown away after being once used.

Blames the Romans.

A sartorial authority says that the custom of dressing for dinner began with the Romans. It was needless to say, a simpler procedure than at present. A loose robe of a fine material was donned for the evening meal, preferably at home, but in cases where guests came from a distance, at the home of the host, he kept a supply of dinner clothes on hand for the use of his guests who came unprovided.

Chooses Queer Quarters.

Queer quarters are those chosen by a thrush in Lincolnshire. It has built its nest over the axle and behind the grease-box of a railway wagon at Market Rasen. The bird is sitting on four eggs, and seems to be not at all disturbed when the wagon is shunted.

Healthful Mineral Waters.

Mineral waters taken for constipation are most effective when taken upon rising. The health seekers in various watering places go to the mineral springs in the early morning in vast crowds. Saline waters may be taken at home in the same way with just as satisfactory results.

Cupid Keeps Busy.

There are about 3,000 weddings every 24 hours, taking the entire world into consideration.

The Royal Oak.

The actual tree into which Charles vanished was hacked to pieces within a few years by relic hunters, and the present royal oak at Boscobe is merely a descendant. A salver made from the original royal oak is still possessed by Oxford university, and countless chairs, tables, altars, picture frames and snuff boxes claim to be made out of the same sacred material. Charles II. intended to commemorate his escape at Boscobel by establishing a new order of "Knights of the Royal Oak," but thought best "not to keep awake animosities." The name of the "Royal Oak" has been preserved in the navy since 1664. The first ship to bear this historic name met with an ignominious fate, being burned by the Dutch when they came up the Medway in 1667 Oak Apple day, now little observed except by school boys, was formerly a great anniversary and for long after the Restoration a Royal Oak invariably figured in all civic pageants.—Westminster Gazette.

SAVED DAUGHTERS LIFE

This Father Refused to Let His Daughter Die.

Here is a story with a moral that many parents might take to heart:

"My daughter was very pale, nervous, thin and suffered with severe pain in her back, so that we took her out of school. Her flesh became blue and she could not retain her urine. I spent over $100 for medicines but she grew worse. Finally I bought a bottle of Thompson's Barosma and she began to grow better right away. Five bottles of Thompson's Barosma made a complete cure and today she is a perfectly healthy girl. Thompson's Barosma saved her life, for she was failing so fast that death was not far off."—Frank D. Meeder, Pleasantville Pa.

If you are troubled with backache, sideache, weakness with backache, or any liver or kidney trouble, then it's time for Thompson's Barosma.

W. F. Henning's sells Thompson's Barosma in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00, and he guarantees it to cure Bright's disease, high colored urine, bed-wetting and all other kidney and liver diseases. It will make anyone vigorous in a few weeks, because it is a great tonic and maker of rich red blood. All druggists.

To Live 140 Years.

The natural term of man's life, arguing from the logic and evidence of comparative zoology, is 140 years—and even this is not the limit.

Life is a promissory note due one day after date, payable on demand, but by right living we can defer payment almost indefinitely.

Eminent scientists tell us that—

The life of the bones is 5,000 years.
The life of the lungs is 1,500 years.
The life of the skin is 900 years.
The life of the liver is 400 years.
The life of the kidneys is 300 years.
The life of the heart is 300 years.

If 300 years is the life of the heart, then one could not have the heart to live after that

The Hindus, in the development of the physical man, claim for him not only longevity, but immunity from disease. They say to him: "He is determined not to fall sick, and he never does. He lives long, a hundred years is nothing to him; he is quite young and fresh when he is 150."

A Polite Acknowledgment.

After a "command" performance in Queen Victoria's time it was the custom for her majesty's secretary to send a letter of thanks to the responsible manager. Sir Henry Ponsonby, upon whom this duty devolved, was the soul of politeness and, not wishing to make any invidious distinction, drew up one form of letter. On the whole this plan worked well, but on one occasion the proprietor of a troupe of performing geese, which had entertained the royal children at a Windsor garden party, received the following communication from Sir Henry: "Sir—I am instructed by the queen to thank you for your visit of yesterday, and to express the hope that the ladies and gentlemen of your company arrived safely in London and in good health!"

Relics of Past Ages.

An interesting discovery was made recently at Spittal (Eng.) by a number of workmen. While digging operations were being carried on, a quantity of human bones were turned up. This was followed by the unearthing of a number of stone coffins, each containing human remains. The coffins bore no resemblance to the massive sarcophagus recently disinterred at Berwick, but consisted simply of rough stone slabs.

To Clean Furniture.

To take marks off varnished furniture wet a sponge in common spirits of camphor, and apply it freely. It has nearly, if not quite, the same effect as varnish, and much cheaper.

This bit of humor and pathos is from the Hawaiian Star: "An amusing incident is related of a young service matron who had relinquished her husband for two years and who, having before his departure insisted on a good photograph, applied herself assiduously to the upbringing of her two-year-old baby with a view to the child's familiarity with her distant father. Each day she would call the baby girl to her and, kneeling beside her, would hold up the photograph, pointing out each feature to the child.

"One day the officer came home, and the baby girl, then four years old, was summoned. 'Come dear,' said her mother in glee, 'papa has come home at last!' The child surveyed the officer in perplexity and finally shook her head.

"'What is the matter, dear?' asked her mother. 'Well,' replied the child, 'he looks something like my papa, but my papa hasn't any legs!'"

Humor of the Barometer.

It was a beautiful barometer. It glistened from its splendid wooden case with a spick and spanness that boasted of its newness. Its rich framework clearly advertised the large price that had been paid for it. Its owner was justly proud. But it possessed one drawback—it wouldn't work. Ever since it had been purchased it had remained at "set fair" whatever the weather had happened to be. And the weather had happened to be particularly wet. At last its owner grew weary of its external beauty and exasperated over its internal stupidity. One day when the rain was pouring extra hard he tore the weather indicator from the wall and took it out into the road.

For a moment the needle hesitated. Then as the raindrops began to dim the glass it made up its mind and moved slowly round to "very dry."—London Answers.

An Innocent Victim.

General F. D. Grant, at a dinner at West Point, once analyzed the military genius of Washington.

"Washington," he said, "gave us our independence by campaigning faultlessly. He never made mistakes. There have been more brilliant soldiers than Washington, but there has never been so sure a one. In warfare, you must know, the smallest mistake may lose a whole battle, a whole campaign, a whole cause. And that reminds me of poor Tom White.

"Tom White failed in business owing to the mistake of one single letter made by his stenographer. Tom's patron in business was a deaf millionaire who was very touchy about his deafness. This millionaire turned from a good friend to a bitter enemy—he foreclosed on Tom—because the unhappy fellow's stenographer accidentally began a letter to him 'Deaf Sir.'"

A Gilded Gown.

During the reign of King George I. Lord Hervey, a cultured man, gave this description of the fine dress of a distinguished woman:

"The Duchess of Queensberry's clothes pleased me most. They were white satin embroidered, the bottom of the petticoat brown hills, covered with all sorts of weeds, and every breadth had an old stump of a tree that ran up almost to the top of the petticoat, broken and ragged and worked with brown chenille, round which twined nasturtiums, ivy, honeysuckles, periwinkles, convolvuluses and all sorts of twining vines, which spread and covered the petticoat. Many of the leaves were finished in gold, and part of the stumps of the trees looked like the gilding of the sun."

Grown Cautious.

Chatty Lodger (to landlord) — You seem to have seen a good deal. What are you? Landlord—Well, sir, I were a lion tamer, and I'd be there now if I 'adn't a-married; but, you see, my wife were a knife thrower in the same show, and she got to practicing her turn on me. Well, thinks I, life ain't too long to run no risks, so I took on a safe job and become a steeplejack.—London Punch.

A Word to Be Avoided.

Wife—Well, did you find out what it was I said that offended Mrs. Youngbride? Hub—Yes, her husband told me. It seems that you remarked, "I see you're installed in your new home," and as they've furnished on the installment plan she thought you were trying to be funny at their expense.—Boston Transcript.

Quite a Help.

"Is your boy Josh much of a help to you?"

"Yes," replied Farmer Cornpossel. "He is making a collection of insects. Of course he don't catch as many as he could if he wouldn't stop to label 'em, but, then, you know, every little helps."—Washington Star.

Anecdotes.

"What is an anecdote, pa?"

"An anecdote, my son, is a short and funny tale which at once reminds the other fellow of a tale which is neither short nor funny."—Puck.

A Choice of Words.

"You sold me that horse as free from faults. Why, it's blind."

"Blind? Well, that's not a fault; that's a cruel misfortune."

He Heard Her.

"My daughter's piano lessons have been a great expense to me."

"That so? Did some neighbor sue you?"

If you live by nature you will never be poor; if by opinion, never rich.—Epicurus.

Actor's Proper Place.

Mahlon Ivans, Jr., of Merchantville has a reputation as an actor and takes part in nearly all of the local shows. In the last show that was given, Shorty had one of the leading parts. After the show, while he was taking off his makeup, an elderly man made his appearance in the doorway. "Are you Mr. Ivins?" inquired the old man. "Yes," replied Shorty, as he motioned him to be seated. "Well," the old man continued, "I just want to tell you something. I've been watching your acting tonight. You should not be playing in this town; you should be with Mansfield, Booth or Irving, or Joe Jefferson." "Why-w-why," said Shorty, "those actors are dead." "I know it," said the old man, as he turned on his heel and left.—Philadelphia Times.

A Wide-Awake Constable.

"Ye say ye ain't been speedin', eh?" said Silas as he stopped the car.

"Nary a speed," said the chauffeur, trying to be amiable.

"When did ye leave Quinceville?" demanded Silas, suspiciously.

"Five o'clock this morning," said the chauffeur, with a wink at his companion.

"Five this mornin', eh?" said the constable, catching the wink. "Taken ye six hours to come four miles. Wa-al, I guess I'll run ye in, anyhow, only I'll change the complaint from overspeedin' to obstructin' the highway."—Harper's Weekly.

A Musical Prodigy.

In 1841 arrived in London a Russian boy, called Antoine Rubinstein, not twelve years old, whose performances on the piano had excited wonder and delight among the musical amateurs. He was equally skilled in the ancient as well as modern style of playing and gave with wonderful effect the most difficult passages of Bach or Thalburg. All this, too, was done with the utmost apparent ease, and in the most difficult passages he frequently indulged himself in grotesque imitations of the peculiar trickeries of the composer upon whose music he was engaged.—The Russian Boy.

It Wasn't a Plot.

"What do you think of the plot?" asked the theater manager. "That isn't a plot," replied the man who had paid two dollars to see the show. "That's a conspiracy."—Washington Star.

China's Exports of Tin.

Exports of tin from China, in which the United States is materially interested, are likely to be largely increased, says a consular report. Practically all the tin mines of the country are in Yunnan province, the product being exported almost entirely through Hong-Kong.

Another Story.

"What did you do when your husband told you the old, old story?" "I told him to shut up before he was half through!" "Why, what a funny way to reply to a confession of love!" "Oh, is that what you mean? I thought you meant the story he told last night when he came home from a time with the boys."

Desire and Endeavor.

What does the hungry man want? Money? Not at all. Fame? No. Good clothes? Not a bit. He wants food. What does the thirsty man want? Reputation? Bonds and stocks? No! He wants water. When we are dead in earnest and want the bread of heaven and water of life, we shall not stop till we get them.—Ram's Horn.

Stung.

Signor Grasso, the Sicilian actor, was so carried away by the enthusiastic reception given to the performance of the third act of "Malia" at the London Hippodrome, that he caught the actor who had played the part of his sturdy rival in that tragic episode round the neck with his left arm, grabbed his hair with his right hand, and kissed him.—London Daily Mail.

Wanted to Be Exact.

"Say, Lem," said a long haired farmer looking into the door of the barber shop, "how soon kin yer cut my hair?" "In about half an hour," replied the barber. "All right," he said and departed. In a few minutes the door opened again. "Say, Lem," asked the farmer, "sun time er standert?"—Success.

Worth Remembering.

"Remember, brethren," said the good man, as he closed the Bible and gently shook a forensic finger at his hearers, "there are no steam whistles in heaven, and no angel is going to get into trouble for twanging a harp overtime."

Nothing to Quarrel About.

There are a few men who are foolish enough to quarrel about where they would go to, if they only had enough money to go some.

TO APPOINT A STUDENT

Congressman Matthews Will Name Man for Academy

SUBSTITUES NECESSARY

Congressman Matthews has been requested by the Secretary of the Navy to nominate a principal and three alternates for the examination for appointment to the U. S. Naval academy. The alternates are to be numbered from one to three and the nominations made in the same order; that is, if the principal passes successfully he shall receive the appointment, but if the principal should fail and the first alternate qualify, the first alternate shall be appointed, and so on. The minimum age at which midshipmen are admitted to the Academy is 16 and the maximum age is 20. The dates for the regular examinations are the third Tuesday in April and the third Tuesday in June.

Mr. Matthews will hold a competitive examination this fall for those who wish to try for the appointment and the candidate making the highest general average in this preliminary examination will be nominated for principal and the alternates will be nominated in the order in which they pass the examination. This examination is open to any person in Beaver, Lawrence or Washington counties who fulfills the age requirements mentioned above. Further information may be obtained by communicating with Charles Matthews, New Castle, Pa.

HE WROTE THE GREAT PLAY

Friends Praised It, Famous Manager Took It to Read—and Then He Woke Up.

"My friends had always insisted that I could write a great play," said Jordan, "If I would only set my hand to the task. Well, to be frank, I had long cherished the idea myself that I possessed the ability to do something worth while in the way of providing material for the stage. Like so many of my fellow laborers in the journalistic field, however, I found it exceedingly difficult to secure the time which was necessary for the production of a drama. The best I could do was to steal an hour now and then to devote to the great work. This I did faithfully and zealously, and, after two years of study and earnest endeavor my play began to near completion.

"My friends were enthusiastic. I had been fortunate enough to hit upon an entirely new plot, and, if I may say so, I had handled it admirably. Each of the four acts was filled with thrilling situations; the comedy was subtle and insinuating; the pathos was genuine and the interest was splendidly sustained. Having administered the finishing touches, I took my play to a great producing manager. He had an office in a large building on Broadway.

"With my play done up in a neat package I entered the anteroom, where a young man greeted me respectfully and admitted that the great manager was not out of the city. In fact, the young man consented to take my card into his employer. I had waited only a minute or two when the young man returned and graciously conducted me to the manager, who cordially shook hands with me and said that he would be glad to personally read my play and consider it strictly on its merits."

"Yes. What then?"

"Well, just at that moment something fell somewhere, making a loud, clattering noise, so I crawled out of bed and put on my clothes."—Chicago Record-Herald.

STEEL SPECKS IN THE FLOUR

Man of Science Announces Gravely That This Is One of the Causes of Appendicitis.

Dr. Edred M. Conner of London, alleges that appendicitis is due to white flour. Steel from the mill rollers gets into the flour. We eat this minute steel and as it goes round the bend it shunts off on the blind siding. In time it stacks up like a culm heap and irritation ensues.

A good part of the steel is absorbed, to be sure. That explains why it is not found in any of the cases operated on. But the point is, no doubt, that more than the 10-penny nail of iron allowed to each mortal is taken in and the body's magnetic equilibrium is thereby upset. The man who invented graham bread died of indigestion, but if he had drawn a magnet through it before baking he would have removed the steel particles and might have lived forever.

The wise cook today will buy a small magnet and thoroughly stir her flour with it before putting in the water and yeast. Let her wipe off the magnet every little while. The black specks that adhere are tiny bits of steel. Bread made in this way may be eaten without fear of appendicitis.

Surely Queen of All Hens.

A certain industrious hen, interested in the welfare of Petaluma, Cal., has gone so far in her efforts to spread the renown of the city of eggs and broilers that she recently placed four yolks in one shell. Her zealousness was discovered by a firm of egg merchants, Whitcomb & Baker. The egg was slightly larger than normal. It looked like a regular egg until a candle gave an X-ray view of four small yolks. A hunt is still being made to locate the hen. In the same shipment were a number of other eggs containing two yolks, but the egg with the four yolks is said to break all records.

Fond Hearts Finally United.

After waiting 30 years for her to become a widow, George Sleegarm of Wilkesbarre, Pa., has married Mrs. Marietta Tehern of Hazelton. When they were young in Germany they fell in love, and would have married had it not been for the opposition of their parents. They tried to elope, but were discovered and caught before it was possible for them to wed. Sleegarm, despondent and angry, emigrated, and his sweetheart, who was married a year after he left, followed a few years later with her husband, who died a short time ago. Sleegarm lately discovered that his old sweetheart lived in Hazleton. The old courtship was begun again and culminated in their wedding the other day.

Sure to Be a Success.

"I expect to make a fortune out of an invention that I have just completed."

"What is it?"

"A piano that can be folded up and used as a card table. It will be a great thing for flats."

How We Live.

The only right is that which allows man's individuality to expand, and the only wrong is that which contracts it—we live in the measure that we voice ourselves, and we but linger when self-expression atrophies and dies.

GOOD TIME IN RACES

Many Attracted to Belle Vernon by Fast Going There

TODAY'S CARD GOOD ONE

Many Charleroi people attended the opening races at Belle Vernon Wednesday, which were marred by two accidents, one of the drivers, W. P. Merrell of Altoona, receiving a severe laceration of the scalp. Both accidents occurred in the final heat of the second race. Violet, driven by J. T. Shank of Dunolo, Pa., and Charmward, driven by Merrell, collided at the last quarter and Violet was thown. Shank, her driver was thrown over her head. He was not injured seriously, and finished, although his horse did not get a place. Charmward, the other horse in the colision, also continued but a short distance away a wheel of the sulky came off and Merrell was thrown. Akeman was approaching, and before its driver could turn, the axle of the sulky struck Merrell on the head, severly injuring him. He was attended by a physician.
